

THE ARTIST

Isolde Marrack

born 1981, lives and works by the sea

Isolde Marrack works between painting, photography and glass. Her subject is the coastline and the light that changes it: tides, fog, salt, the few minutes of a crossing. She trained as a printmaker and still thinks in layers, building each work from a dark ground towards the light.

The Brine Hour brings together six works made over five years along the same stretch of coast, shown for the first time as a single series.
